EUROPEAN WAR NEWS SUMMARY

Fighting in the Verdun sector has reached an extremely violent stage during the last thirty-six hours. In an attempt to regain the positions they lost last week the Germans attacked on a front nearly two miles on the right bank of the Meuse and succeeded in gaining a temporary foothold in one section of the line. The French counter aftacked, however, and succeeded in reoccupying the disputed positions. More than a thousand German dead were left in front of the French positions around the Bois des Fosses. Four attacks against the newly won French positions north of Boise le Chaume were launched during the afternoon but Paris says the engagement ended with the trenches still in French hands. German army headquarters reports the capture of 300 prisoners in this region on Sunday.

Renewed infantry activity is reported at several points along the British front. Most of the attacks appear to have resulted in minor gains for the troops of Field Marshal Haig. Northwest of St. Quentin the British occupied German positions "over a front of several hundred yards."

In Flanders, British guns continue to roar in the mighty bom bardment begun nearly two weeks ago, presumably in preparation for a new drive.

The Italian offensive on the Isonzo front has been temporarily checked by bad weather. The latest war office report from Rome says that the artillery battle northeast of Gorizia in the Monte San Gabriele region is "continuing without cessation," but elsewhere only patrol action and the usual artillery fire is reported. Violent storms have been raging over this theater of action for the last two days. The plains have been transformed into lakes of mud, and every stream swollen out of its banks.

German troops are today forcing a passage of the lower As in their pursuit of the fleeing Russians in the Riga sector. Bridges have been thrown across the stream at several points, and large forces of Germans are being concentrated on the north bank preliminary to renewing the advance on a determined scale. Russian cavalry is materially impneding the progress of the Germans along the Pskoff road. The Petrograd war office statement mentions "unusual German activity" at advanced railway stations in the Jacobstadt and Dvinsk regions.

Signs of renewed activity are developing along the Macedonian front. Rifle firing and intermittent cannonading are reported from practically the whole front.
